Forbidden Games.

Almost every one of England's poplar games has at one time or another peen made illegal. Scotland is the some of golf, yet in 1457 the Scottish parliament passed an act entailing severe penalties on any one caught playing the game.

Edward III., Henry IV. and Henry VIII. all strongly objected to football, and Queen Elizabeth made it an offense punishable by imprisonment to play football. There is a record of sixteen people being imprisoned at once for breaking this law.

Football is still under a ban in some parts of the world. Two of the Swiss cantons refuse to allow it, and in Turkey it is absolutely illegal, and those who dare to play it are punished.

Among oddities of laws about games must be mentioned a French decree of the thirteenth century. By the king's command the gallants of the court were forbidden to play tennis "in their shirts." Whether his majesty of France insisted upon coats only or whether the unfortunate players were doomed to practice in complete suits of armor does not appear. - London Graphic.

Agriculture In Africa. Excepting perhaps some Malayan tribes the African negroes are said to be the finest agriculturists of all the natural races. The Bongos are said to have a greater variety of garden plants | J R Tolly around their buts than are found in the fields and gardens of a German village. Irrigation is practiced. The Angolas, in the Kongo districit, have practical irrigation. The Wachangu show wonderful skill in irrigating their terraced hillsides by tunnels of water 41- R Boyd verted from the main stream. "They have a clear mode of irrigating equally a given surface.
